Founder's Transition from Federal Service

[April 20, 2025] - AIEM, LLC is proud to share that its founder, Stephen Peterson, officially retired from federal service on April 19, 2025, after a career dedicated to emergency management, public safety, and community resilience.

With more than two decades of combined experience in the public and private sectors, including 13 purposeful years at the National Institutes of Health, Stephen has supported local, national, and international disaster preparedness and response initiatives. Throughout his career, he has remained committed to bridging technical innovation with operational needs, and to championing practical, trusted approaches to emergency management.

Stephen now brings that experience to AIEM, LLC, an organization dedicated to advancing thoughtful and practical artificial intelligence innovations in emergency management. AIEM will build on Stephen's long-standing collaborations with researchers, universities, and practitioners across the field, including 10 years of volunteer service with the Montgomery County, MD CERT Virtual Emergency Response Team Program.

This new chapter reflects a continued commitment to public service, one that looks forward, while staying grounded in the values of integrity, trust, and purpose.
